KANSAS MILITIA GO HOME

THE REPUBLICANS GET A COURT DE-CISION IN THEIR FAVOR.

Judge Hasen Decides that His Court Has Cognizance of Matters Pertaining to State Legislation, and Grants an Irrunction Forbidding the State Treasure from TOPERA, Feb. 18.-All the troops have been mustered out and sent home. They left by special trains during the night. Sheriff Wilkinson is exercising his authority about the Capitol and has a small force of deputies to discuss the trouble. There are no guards at the doors, and public business has been resumed in all the departments. Visitors are admitted to all the reoms and hundreds of persons availed themselves of this privilege -day in order to obtain a view of the seat of war, as it existed on Thursday and Friday.

The Republican members adjourned their House until Monday in order to recover from the fatigue of their two days' imprisonment in Representative Hall. The doors, which Speaker Douglass battered down with a sledgehammer have been repaired, and all the obstructions and barricades removed, in secondwas made to remove the decorations which were placed in the hall in which Gov. Lewelling was inaugurated, but at the suggestion of Representative Hoch and other Republican leaders they were allowed to remain. The hall was left in charge of R. B. Welch and thirty assistant sergeants-at-arms during the night, as it was thought unwise to leave the lists to endeavor to regain possession. It was known that many radical Populists had expressed dissatisfaction at the terms of the peace agreement, and it was feared that this element might enter the hall, unless restrained by a night several persons presented themselves at the door and endeavored to gain admission on passes signed by Adjutant Artz, but the passes were not recognized. Artz says they were old passes and were not intended to be used for such a purpose.

Another accident happened last night in the corridor of the State House, where some of the troops were quartered, which revived the exsitement of the day and started a report that hostilities had been renewed. Private James Davis of the Clyde company drew a revolver from a belt which was hanging on a chair, and in doing so the weapon was accidentally discharged. The ball went among a crowd of thirty soldiers, striking bergeant Edwin Correy of the Eldorado company in the thigh, inflicting a serious wound. Davis was placed did not touch the trigger, and the revolver was

The Populists are denouncing the militia in unmeasured terms for the attitude the companies assumed in opposition to the Governor. The failure of the plan to drive the Republicans from Representative Hall, after they barricaded themselves there on Wednesday morning, was due to the force upon which the Populists had depended to carry the plan into execution. The State militia, the troopsmen and officers. Adjutant-General Artz excepted, sympathized with the Republicans. They held the key to the situation, and when they declined to execute the Governor's orders the Populists were forced to acknowledge themselves beaten and yield to the demand for a compromise. It is now said that the military force of the State will be immediately reorganized, and that no men will be mustered in who are not in sympathy with the Administration.

Many Populist members are in revolt against the Governor's policy of reconciliation, and openly declare that they will not submit to an adverse decision from the Supreme Court regarding the legality of their organization. The anti-peace feeling became very pronounced about noon to-day, when it Shawnee County District Court had given a decision favorable to the Republicans in the injunction case brought before him to prevent the State Treasurer from paying out any money on the Legislative Appropriation bill, which was passed by the Senate and the Populist House and approved by the Governor on Tuesday last. This case is regarded as the starting point for testing the legality of the conflicting Houses in the Supreme Court. The case was brought by the county attorney. The attorney for the Populists contended that the District Court had no jurisdiction and that the original proceedings should be begun in the Supreme Court by the Attorney-General. Judge Hazen held that the District Court had jurisdiction under certain circumstances, and overruied the demurrer. In doing so he took recognition of the fact that the Attorney-General was a Populist and had refused to institute original proceedings in the Supreme Court, thus closing that medium of redress to the Republicans.

Attorney W. C. Webb took exceptions to this and that medium of redress to the Republicans.

Attorney W. C. Webb took exceptions to this ruling, and announced that he would appeal to the Supreme Court on the demurrer. Judge Hazen then heard the evidence and arguments on the question of enjoining the State Treasurer, and gave his decision this morning granting a temporary injunction. The Judge reviewed the facts concerning the organization of the Legislature, and said:

"The plaintiffs in this case (Republicans) base their whole claim upon the assertion that the law requiring the Attorney-General to institute such proceedings is a nullity. The defendants (Populists) stand behind the law itself and the journal of the Dunsmore House and introduced no evidence, but say the Court has no jurisdiction to go behind the law itself and the journal of the House which passed it that the Court will not attempt to enter into that part of the case, but the Court will determine as to the House itself and as to its being legally organized. The courts have the power to investigate, but if it is a fact, as stated by the defendant, that the courts cannot call into question the legally organization, then 125 men might meet in this Court House and elect a Speaker and a Clerk, and declare themselves to be the legal organized House of Representatives. The defendants base their case on the Ohio case, when, after the Senate was organized, twenty members of the Senate marched out, leaving seventeen members in the Senate chamber to conduct business. The decision of the Supress of the Senate allowed the summer to court is that the seventeen members were the Senate, although I am much impressed by the dissenting opinion of Chief Justice Owen. But the Ohio case is not a similar case to this."

Authorities were cited by the Judge showing in what respect the Kansas and Ohio cases the Senate, although I am much impressed by the dissenting opinion of the Supressentative Hall, and that filty-eight other members have also been meeting in Representative Hall, and that filty-eight other member Attorney W. C. Webb took exceptions to this permanent injunction can be granted. The isjunction will be allowed.

The court room was crowded during the delivery of the opinion, and the result brought forth the inevitable kansas cheer. The attorneys for the Populists held a conference and decided to take the case into the Supreme Court on the question of jurisdiction, and the further question of the power of the Attorney-General to dismiss the action as the proper law officer of the State. The Attorney-General explains his position as follows:

"I was instructed by the Governor to go to the District Court and take charge of the case. I appeared there according to my instructions, but the Court ruled that I could not take sharge of the case for the State and could only appear in conjunction with and under the County Attorney. This placed the case in such a position that I was on the other side of the case from that by which my instructions from the Governor would place me, and for that reason I did not appear this morning. Within tan days I will have full charge of it there. The statutes give me control of all cases in the Supreme Court in which the State is interested."

About $20,000 was paid out of the State

the Supreme Court in which the State is interested."

About $20,000 was paid out of the State Treasury on warrants before the injunction proceedings were illed, and it is the general opinion of attorneys that if the Supreme Court sustains Judge Hazen's decision Treasurer Biddle's bondsmen can be held for the money paid out. The Fopulits attorneys insist that Judge Hazen's decision is contrary to that of the Supreme Court of Ohio, and that the cases are parallel. In the Ohio case four Democratic Benators were custed and four Republicans seated, and the Court held the members so seated, and the Court held the members so seated are at least de facto members of the House to which they belong and the validity of the title by which they occupy their seats cannot be inquired into by the Court for the purpose of affecting the validity of the laws seated by the Legislature in which they bold seats. The Populist attorners maintain that it has been universally held as in this case that it is incompetent for the judiciary to inquire into the legality of the existence of the General Assembly, forthat would logically and necessarily lead into inquiring into the titles of members of the General Assembly to their seats, which power is exclusively conferred upon the respective houses of the ignitative dupon the respective house of the ignitative body be attacked by journal evidence for any purpose as that the Populist house can go ahead—and passail the bills its members deem proper, and if concurred in by the Senate and not otherwise unconstitutional they will not be interfered with by the Supreme Court, according to the Populist theory.

What is known as the Gunn case was again called in the Eupreme Court to-day on the approach of the approach of the merits of the case. In his motion he alleges coilusion between Gunn and the Douglans House. He charges that the case is feigned to get a decision from the Court on the constitutionality of the Republican House, and that it was arranged with Gunn at the time of his arrest that he should institute habeas corpus proceedings. In case coilusion is proven, the Attorney-General asks that the case be dismissed.

The Governor appointed Judge Frank Doston and Judge W. C. Webb to assist Eugens Hagan, the plaintiffs attorney, in the case, the Court ordered it continued until Tuesday, Feb. 21.

The Fopulist House held a session in the Assembly Hall yesterday afternoon, after peace had been brought about, but the meeting was secret and the proceedings were introducing the form of the Gunnal France of Linn, who is the state of a general bill for the reduction of the alaries of all county officers in the county of the month of the form of the county of the malaries of the control of the salaries of officers in their own reducing the sound of the salaries of officers in their own private bills reducing the salaries of what he wants before asking for it, and not put the House to the annoyance of reseinding an action within live hours of its recommendation.

The sentiment of most of those who participated in the discussion was unfavorable to the Governor and in opposition to any plan of compromise with the Republicans which might be construed as an admission that the Republicans had any legal standing in the body. In order to pacify the Populists and te avoid a further controversy over the question, Representative Coburn made a motion to adjourn until Monday afternoon. In support of the motion he said:

"It is very humiliating to all the members of the House of Representatives of the State of Kansas which has been recognized by the Governor and the Senate to be driven from the ordinary place of meeting and be compelled to do business in such a place as this. The peculiar circumstances that have surrounded the Governor for the past week, however, have made it impossible to do anything. Why not go home now, and return next Monday, refreshed and rested, and prepared to carry the business through to a finish. In two years from now we will have no trouble of the kind. We will bury the Republicans at the next election so deep that they will never get out."

Representative Rice said he was willing to go home for the present, but he was getting tired of the constant wrangling, and he hoped steps would soon be taken to accomplish something in the interest of the public. He said: "I will not go to my people and say that we have been driven from the State House by the hirelings or corporations without making a last desperate effort to improve the condition of the laboring men of this country. Let us go home to-day and return on Monday ready for business or battle."

Others expressed similar views. Some were in favor of continuing in session, but the motion to adjourn until Monday was finally adopted. The members who had drawn their milesges and per diem allowances from the Treasurer before the injunction was sorved were asked to contribu

May God have mercy on this treason-infected State. Republicans looked at each other half dazed.

May God have mercy on this treason-infected State. Amen.

Republicans looked at each other half dazed, and the Populists smiled.

"To which party do you refer as treasonable?" the chaplain was asked.

"The party which mobbed the militia," he replied. The chaplain is a Populist.

It was reported this afternoon that the Governor had requested protection of the Sheriff from threatened assault by indignant Populists. It was reported this afternoon that the Governor had requested protection of the Sheriff from threatened assault by indignant Populists. Investigation proved that the Sheriff had been advised that a half-witted man from Cherokee county, who has been in Topeka for several days, had shated in public that he would shoot the Governor on sight. The stranger was sent out of town.

The Governor says he has no fears of assasination, and anticipates no trouble from any source. He believes that his course will be supported by the grert majority of his party, and is particularly pleased with the commendation he has received from the press of the Eastern cities and the telegrams sent by his personal friends in kansas.

He has already begun the work of reorganizing and strengthening the militia, and will eliminate the mutinous elements. Col. J. W. F. Hughes, who refused to obey the Governor's order to drive the Republicans out of Representative Hall on Thursday night is being enthusiastically supported by the Republicans for Mayor of the city of Topeka. Pations in his behalf are in circulation, and have received hundreds of signatures.

Battery A of Wichita and Company H of Edwards are the only militia companies remaining duty of any kind.

On Tuesday the Republican House will try to enforce its resolution passed last week, requiring the certified members who are acting with the Dunsmore House to report for service in the Douglass House, or have their seats declared vacant, and the Governor will refuse to recognize the existence of any vacancies.

The feeling is becoming more and more settled that the Populists will continue their separate organization. The Republicans are hopeful that a decision as to the constitutionality of the Populist house will unrayel the recent Senatorial election to the extent of requiring a new election.

NO CHOICE IN WYOMING.

The Legislature, Unable to Elect a Senutor.

Adjourns Sine Dic. CHEYENNE, Feb. 18.-The Wyoming Legisature adjourned, having failed to elect a United States Senator. Some of the legisators believed that Warren, Republican, would be reflected if balloting continued, and others feared that A. L. New, Democrat, would be a winner. Anti-Warren Republicans and anti-New Democrats forced the abrupt termination. It is said that neither man is worried over the result. There were so many factions that an election was practically an impossibility. The motion to adjourn sine die was carried by a majority of only two votes.

Gov. Osborne will now appoint a man for two years. At the end of that time there will be two benator vacancies, the term of Carey (liep.) expiring then. The only fear of the Democrats is that they will be unable to cope mancially with the opposition at that time. There will probably be no fusier, between the Democrats and Populists, but a red-hot three-cornered fight will be on. Candi fates for the favor of the Governor now are Gea. Thompson, who one time had twenty-four of the twenty-five required votes; A. C. Beckwith, who one had eighteen votes; A. C. Beckwith, who was behind Mr. New, and Mr. Hinton, the free silver champion. nation. It is said that neither man is worried hind Mr. New, and Mr. Himon.

Delegations are already making life miserable for Gov. Osborne, and he will appoint without delay. The general opinion is that the prize is between New and Thompson. The lower branch, which had a Democratic majority, adjourned without delay as soon as the joint session was over. Members who had bills of importance sending begged for a continuance to the end of the time set, but in the uproar and confusion the motion was carried. The constitutionality of this proceeding is questioned, but the Herresenatives refused to assemble in the afternoon. The Senate remained at wort till late at pignit. Legislation which affects the party and brate seriously was killed by the House adjournment. Appropriation and apportionment bills were put through in the forenoon.

ANSONIA, Conn., Feb. 18.-The little country village of Long Hill, a few miles west of this town, is torn up by a lottery war. The people are divided, the Methodists and a few other Protestants on one side, and the Catholics on the other. It all came about over a fair held by St. Stephen's Roman Catholic Church, in Middlebrooks's Hall, last week. The fair had been extensively advertised, and as the popu lation of Long Hill is small invitations were published in the newspapers of Ansonia, Birmingham, Newtown, and Bridgeport for the people of toese places to come and help out. The leading merchants of the several towns had contributed many valuable articles. rom a barrel of flour to a handsome plane amp, and it was proposed to dispose of these articles in the usual way of church fairs-by

The young women of the church had secured attractive costumes, and had provided for the witchery of manner which was to draw the dimes and quarters from the pockets of susceptible men, when their hearts were sad-dened by the rumor that there would be no chances. Some mean man was to put a stor o the disposal of all their handsome and use ful gifts by lottery because, he claimed, it was llegal. But they brightened up when Fathers Fox and Lawson told them not to worry; that t would come out all right, and that they were to do their best to increase the fund for paying off the debt on the church.

The rumor of an attempt to stop the lotters feature of the affair was true. The Rev. Mr. Taft of the Methodist Church was the man who had started to break the hearts of the pretty Catholic lasses. When the fair opened he began his denuciations of the one feature which would bring in the most money. He said the fair was a clear gambling scheme. and as such was against the statutes of the State: and for fear the bright-eyed Irish girls might induce some of the young men of his congregation to invest their surplus earnings to stop it. Finding denunciation of no avail, he hall, and threatened to have him proseposes of gambling. Mr. Middlebrooks is an easy-going, jolly sort of a man, but not silly, and Mr. Taft's threats rolled off bim like water from a duck's back. Then the energetic reformer called on the pastors of the Catholic church, the Rev. Fathers Fox and energetic reformer called on the pastors of the Catholic church, the Rev. Fathers Fox and Lawson, and threatened to have them arrested. They declined to listen to him, and the fair went on each night, and each night saw a bigger crowd that the one preceding, because of Parson Taft's free advertising. Finally, determined to put a stop to what he called "unboly work." the parson called on Miss Katie Finnell, who had charge of the pretty canvassers. He warned her of the illegality of lotteries, for whatever purpose they were malutained, and demanded that she refuse to continue her canvassers. She gave him no reply, and he went home, got a copy of the law on gambling with the penalty clause marked in red ink, and sent it to her.

The fair still progressed and Dominie Taft continued his crusade. He called on the grand jurors and sought warrants by the wholesale for the arrest of priests and parishioners, but he did not get them. The fair continued for the full week advertised and was very liberally patronized. People in other towns who had heard of Mr. Taft's fight and admired the pluck of Miss Pinnell and her assistants drove in to take chances on the prizes, and as each night wound up with a dance they felt repaid for their trip over the bad roads.

When the drawings were held it was found that a big share of the prizes had fallen to the lot of Protestants, and this added fresh fuel to Parson Taft's enthusiasm. He considered that the whole affair had been conducted contrary to the startles of the commonwealth of Connecticut, and the morals of the quiet community had been sadly injured. In a sermon he used some very forcible language, and said he would yet "bring the priests to justice." He will not he satisfied until he brings them before a court to answer the charge of violating the lottery law.

It will be some time before he is satisfied, however, as no Grand Juror of the town will sign a complaint, and, consequently, no arrests can be made. It is said that Mr. Taft's congregation is not unanimous in supporting

MISS LORILLARD'S WEDDING. To be Celebrated as Originally Planned, and

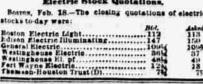

The stories which have been in circulation riage of Miss Maud Lorillard, the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pierre Lorillard, to Mr. Thomas Suffern Tailer, the only son of Mr. F. N. Tailer, would be one of the surprises of the season, are according to a near connection of the family of the bridegroom, completely without foundation. As far as could be learned last night the marriage of the young people will not take place before the date originally set for it, April 10, and, as at present under stood, it will be solemnized in one of the city churches. The reported opposition of Mrs. Lorillard to her daughter's choice of a husband concens. The reported opposition of Mrs. Lorillard to her daughter's eboice of a husband is also denied, though it is admitted that the young lady's mother has endeavored to have the ceremony deferred for a year at least. It appears that Mr. Lorillard is wholly in favor of the match.

For several weeks Miss Lorillard has been visiting her sister, Mrs. William Kent, who has passed most of the time since the holiday season at her residence, 149 West Fifty-seventh street. Yesterday Mr. and Mrs. Kent, Miss Lorillard, and Mr. Tailer went out to Tuxedo Park. Miss Lorillard, and illed sports of all kinds.

Miss Fannie Tailer, sister of Mr. T. Suffern Tailer, a few nights ago gave a dinner party at the residence of her parents, 11 Washington square North, in honor of Miss Lorillard. The other guests at the table were Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Turnure, Jr. Miss Flora Davis, Miss Grace Wilson, Miss Emely King, Miss Edith Kip, Miss Hunnewell of Newport, Mr. Lispenard Stewart, Mr. Theodore Fredinghuysen, Mr. I, Hobert Snaw Minturn, Mr. T. S. Tailer, and Mr. E. N. Tailer.

Probably no lady who is or has been before the American public has made more friends or is more popular than Mrs. Mary F. Scott-Sid-dona. Her beauty, ability, and charming man-ners, whether upon the stage, the platform, or in social circles, have always been acknowledged, while her audiences are invariably large. It may not be known, however, that Mrs. Siddons was obliged to cancel certain engagements during the present season owing to her health, which suddenly gave way while at Canton, O., but it will be a source of pleasure for her many friends to know that Mrs. Sid-

"My health gave way from the effects of excessive travelling and mental and physical overstrain. I do not look so now? No. I am not, and do you know the reason? I attribute it entirely to the effects of Ale and Beef pepton-ized. Really, I do not know what I should do without this great tonic. It has been to me invaluable, not only inducing a hearty and profitable appetite, but it has caused refresh-ing sleep and had a magical effect on my spirits, restoring them in a few days from a nost trying despondency to a calm and cheerful equilibrium. I do not hesitate to talk thus upon the subject, for I feel every word that say, and I wish that the overworked hundreds in my own profession, and in all professions, might know the value of Ale and Beef peptonized, as I know it. I could wish them no greater boon than an acquaintance with this most valuable and delightful tonic." These words of Mrs. Siddons, while strong are not exceptional. Hundreds of weak and worn-out women, thousands of professiona and business men, have depended upon Ale and Beef peptonized for regaining their health, strength, and vitality. It is both a food and a tonic. It was the only nutriment that Prof. Jacques could retain upon his stom ach after his fifty days' fast, and it is endorsed by and used by prominent public men in Washington and throughout the land, and by such ladies as Mrs. Henry Ward Beecher, Mrs Stowe, and thousands of others. - Adr.
